Jay Hem-ingway had a son who could play
Once as a dunce, for a show do-ing stunts,

All in - struments that were made so they say,
He left the town but his dad had a hunch;

From pi - an - o down,
He'd re - turn some-day,

all a-round the town, He would en - ter-tain all day.
to the town to play, Lead - er of the big pa - rate.

Kate used to wait for the cel - lo to moan, Dave always raved 'bout the big sax-o-phone;
Show came, you know, and the boy was a pet, There, ev-'ry-where with his new clar-i-net;

Pa loved the pic - co - lo, And he al-ways would say: Spoken To his son ev'ry day just for fun son
But Dad-dy stopped the show, When he went up and said! To his son who begun just for fun son

CHORUS.

"Play a piece for pa - pa on your pic - co - lo,

Start a stream of mus-ic, son-ny, let it flow; There's not an in-strument that's half as cute, Root-ie toot-ie toot - ie toot-ie toot toot toot.

PICCOLO
DRUMS

Play it in the morn - ing, play it in the night,

Play it for your dad-dy, and he'll treat you right; Don't you dare to stop 'er,
Here's an-oth-er nick-le,

Play a tune for popper, Play it on your pic-co - lo." 1 2 D.S.
Play a tune to tick-le, lo." D.S.
