

A COON SERENADE

Copyright for all Countries.

PRICE 50 CENTS.

WORDS AND MUSIC BY
JENNIE JEWETT MORANDI.

*Boston,
The B. F. Wood Music Co.*

A COON SERENADE.

Words and Music by
JENNIE JEWETT MORANDI.

Moderato.

VOICE.

PIANO.

mp

p

1. Soft - ly the shades of twi-light now are fall - ing,
2. Some-times I'm sure my love you try to phaze me,

pp

Bright - ly the stars are shin - ing in the sky Bells sweet - ly chime,
Try hard to throw me down, but then you craze me, Drive me just wild,

In rhyth-mic rhyme, While I sing this lit - tle song to you,
My hon - ey child, Dont you see, be-cause I love you so!

Moon-beams are flood-ing all the land with glo - ry, While I am Sweet lips are smil-ing ten-der-ly a-bove me, Bright eyes are tell - ing you the old sweet sto - ry, That my heart from you will tell - ing me just how you love me, For I know that I'm your nev - er part, And that my love for you is ev - er, ev - er, true.

on - ly beau, O sweet heart, lis - ten while I whis - per soft and low:

REFRAIN.

pp Oh! oh! my lit - tle hon - ey, you are my sweet,

When I'm with you my hap - pi - ness is com - plete; You are my on - ly love,

True as the stars a - bove, And my heart is fill'd with joy di - vine. There may be oth - er girls, but they're not like you;

None have a face so fair, or heart half so true; I love you best of all,

Oh! hon - ey, hear my call, And say that you'll al-ways love me, ba - by mine.