1. In kin-der-gar-tens in coun-try or town
2. The art of woo-ing, I'm firm-ly re-solved our ed-u-ca-tions befor men is ter-ri-bly

- gin, crude;

Like lit-tle Spar-tans, we're taught to crush down
To be pur-su-ing is not so in-volved the in-cli-nations to sin, When we change to as hav-ing to be pur-sued, Doubts and fears make gen-tle a - do - les-cence things get ra-ther strained, wo-men work much fast-er tho' they're frail and weak,

There's a strange, pe - cu-liar ef-fer-ves-cence no one has ex-plained.
Tak-ing years suc-cess-ful-ly to mas-ter fem-in - ine tech-nique.

REFRAIN.

First— you learn to spell— a lit - tle bit, Then, — if you — ex - cel — a lit - tle bit,
First— you droop your eyes — a lit - tle bit, Then, — if you — are wise — a lit - tle bit,

O - ther things — as well — a lit - tle bit come your way;
Reg - is - ter — sur - prise — a lit - tle bit if he's bold,

Though the pro - cess may — be slow to you Know - ledge of — the world — will flow to you, Stamp your foot — with some — ce - le - ri - ty, Mur - mur with — in - tense — sin - ce - ri - ty

Stead - i - ly — you grow — a lit - tle bit, day by day; — Though you're too
That — his im - ma - ture — te - me - ri - ty leaves you cold. — But when you gen-tle, sen-ti - men-tal, — in fact, quite a drea - ry bore, Though you're aes-get him you must let him have the joy he's yearn - ing for, and whis-per

-thet-ic, a - pa - thet-ic, — to all men but Ber - nard Shaw, sweetly, in-dis-cree-t-ly, — he's the boy that you a - dore,

Use the vel - vet glove a lit - tle bit, Em - u - late the dove a lit - tle bit,
Use the moon a - bove a lit - tle bit, Em - u - late the dove a lit - tle bit,
