Gink;..... You can hear the home guards shout, when-e'er the boes turn ways;..... And the rich jump on the tables, with chickens from the out, "Get next to the pranc - ing Gink"..... See cradles, And hit high spots ev - 'ry way..... But how he one steps down the stairs, walks like a butch-er at the coun-try fairs, Ho-boes back in Jungle-land, they have a dance that beats those mongles grand,

Ducks and runs from the bulls and shack, Looks around once, nev-er comes back, for—A box car smash-up from the rear, When the one-step mu-sic hits their ear.—

It's the Ho - bo dance, It's got them all a guess-ing, It's the Ho - bo tan - go stran-gle hold, and not a danc - ing les - son; You learn it on the coun-try roads and in the Boo - by hatch-es, You
