The first verse of lyrics is set to a musical accompaniment. The right hand melody is simple, often using quarter notes and eighth notes. The left hand accompaniment features chords and a steady bass line. The lyrics are: "Rag - time Sal and her rag - time pal went Rag - time Sal and her rag - time pal were".

The second verse of lyrics continues the musical piece. The right hand melody includes some grace notes and slurs. The left hand accompaniment remains consistent with the previous section. The lyrics are: "to a ball one night Those high class coons were at a swell banquet The way those swell coons".

The third and final verse of lyrics is accompanied by the same musical structure. The right hand melody concludes with a final note. The left hand accompaniment provides a solid foundation. The lyrics are: "danc - ing 'round oh my it was a sight Now the tried to dance it made Sal stew and fret Now the".
