The times have changed since you and I were sweet hearts I've known you since the days when you were sweet six dear, teen, Do you re-call the styles of yes-ter-day; Your But When girls of fash-ion fan-cied the pol-on-aise; blue ging-ham gown, your shawl dear of brown and your bon-net of now times have changed mod-ern styles seem so strange not as quaint as they sil - ver and gray. Thru' - out the years the were yes ter day. I've seen each gown you've fash - ion's rise and fall, Yes - ter - days were the sweet - est of worn since the day we met, But there's one that I can't quite for-all. In your old cal - i - co that you wore years a - go you were get. It's your all an - y - one could de - sire. As you strolled thru' the town in that old fash-ioned gown ev'-ry - one turned a - round to ad - mire. _____ You've worn silks and sa-tins of ma-n-y pret-ty pat-terns, your wed-ding gown I still re-mem-ber too, _____ But I liked you best, When you were dressed in your old cal-i - co of blue. In your blue. _____

CHORUS
